WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, May 3, 1888.

Mr. Editor.—Early Monday

literally "children's day" in Washington, and its advent is looked forward to with eager anticipation by the little ones, who repair to the "President's Grounds," as the children say, to roll eggs. This is a peculiar local custom, and to strangers the scene has almost as great an attraction as to the children themselves. Despite the threatening sky, the White House Grounds were taken possession of by the little folks at an early hour on Monday last, and the sport of rolling eggs down the terraces commenced. As the day advanced the clouds increased, and the grounds literally swarmed with children, and grown people too for that matter, who took an active part in the egg rolling sport. At half past one the President received the children in the East Room, and the crowd was so great that at the end of an hour it became necessary in self defense to order the door to be closed. The children had been informed that the President was going to distribute Easter eggs, and they were greatly disappointed on finding that their credulity had been tampered with. A great deal of amusement was caused by a little seven-year-old daughter of Senator Dawes, who appeared some time after the door had been closed, and, approaching the doorkeeper, said: "Tell the President that Senator Dawes' daughter wants to see him." After waiting for some time, and receiving no reply to her message, she left, saying: "It is just like these old Democrats."

A very large and enthusiastic audience assembled at the Metropolitan Church, on Tuesday evening last, to listen to the memorial exercises, which had been arranged for the sixty-fourth anniversary of the birthday of General Grant. One side of the church had been reserved for members of the Grand Army, but these seats were found to be insufficient, and many of the veterans were obliged to stand in the aisles. The earnest attention with which the large audience listened to the address showed how deeply they were interested in the services.

The Senate has passed a very large number of private pension bills during the week. Many of these bills are referred by the Pension Bureau to Congress for action, because of some lack in testimony, in cases where there is no question as to the justice of the claim. These claims are examined carefully by the Pension Committee, and it is only upon the favorable report of the committee that action is taken by Congress.

The proposition to place the manufacture and sale of imitations of butter under the control of the Internal Revenue Bureau, and impose a tax of ten cents per pound, meets with a great deal of favor and is likely to become a law. Petitions are pouring into Congress from all sections of the country, from dairymen, merchants, and consumers. It is urged by the friends of the bill that the exportation of imitation butter, and its sales in foreign markets as the genuine article, has seriously injured the sale of American dairy products.

The discussion in the Senate of a provision in the Postoffice Appropriation bill, to provide a subsidy of $500,000 for American steamships carrying mails to foreign countries has led to an interesting debate. The amendment was introduced by Mr. Frye, and in its support he argued that by subsidizing vessels to ply between Central and South America and the United States, our surplus production would find markets and the millions of idle workmen and laborers would find work, and the existing strikes and labor troubles would come to an end. The discussion of this amendment led to a spirited debate upon tariff which was participated in by several senators.

The new Chinese Minister has formally presented to the President on Thursday. He was attired in full court costume and was accompanied by three of his suit and an interpreter. In presenting his credentials the minister said that it would be his constant aim to maintain the friendly relations existing between the two countries.

The labor agitation which prevails throughout the country has reached Washington, and it is reported that the members of the various labor unions in the city will today demand that eight hours be hereafter considered a full day's work, and in the event of a refusal of their demand a general strike will be ordered, in which event between eight and ten thousand men will be thrown out of work.

The directors of the Washington and Georgetown Street Railway Company recently decided to reduce the time of their employees from sixteen to twelve hours, after May 1st. The action was voluntarily on the part of the company, and as a mark of appreciation a handsome gold-headed cane was presented to the president of the company by the employees, and the cane were on Saturday decorated with flags, bells, etc. H.

THE FOLLOWING IS THE FULL TEXT OF THE bill to repeal the County Court Act, introduced by Delegate Bean, and which passed the lower house of Congress yesterday or two since:

A bill to increase the jurisdiction of Probate Courts in Arizona, and to repeal all acts of the Territorial Assembly creating county courts in said Territory.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that in addition to jurisdiction of all matters of probate, the probate courts in the different counties in the Territory of Arizona shall have appellate jurisdiction over all appeals from justices of the peace, the said on appeal to be de novo, and also original jurisdiction in all cases in which the value of the subject-matter would be at least five hundred dollars.

Sec. 2. That appeals may be taken to the district court in all matters of probate, and in all other cases to the supreme court of the Territory, as is or may be prescribed by law.

Sec. 3. That all acts or parts of acts of the legislative assembly creating county courts in the different counties in the Territory of Arizona, are hereby repealed and declared to be inoperative, null and void of no effect.

THE REIGN OF SOAP.

The sun is full of bubbles, The trees are full of bees, The flocks are full of white swans, The house is full of soaps.

We stumble over bed-slates, Reclining in the bath, And down the stairs in spring time Secure an early fall.

We see the stovepipe dreaming, On glossy vest and shirt, We see a beam from Pittsburgh Our swallow-tail begirt.

Oh, hark! O gentle spring time, With beauties manifold, All dressed with brooches, And bright with flowers of gold.

Come on, O rose-crowned beauty, With all your charms unheeded: You bet, we'll not be happy When this old house is cleaned!

—Puck.

Get It Bad.

Bucky O'Neill, editor of Hoof and Horn, which type the bye is one of our most readable exchanges, as it's editor is one of the brightest and sprightliest editors in Arizona, recently took a header into the sea of matrimony. After emerging he reports the result of his plunge as follows:

O'NEILL — SCHINDLER. — In Prescott, A. T., April 27th, 1888, by the Rev. Father Guibotoni, Wm. O. O'Neill to Miss Pauline M. Schindler.

By reference to the above notice it will be seen that the editor of Hoof and Horn has passed the Rubicon of bachelorhood and now rests in the Bosny land of matrimony. Do we like it? Go your bottom dollar on the proposition, if you would realize a hundred percent on your money. Sensations? Describe them? Impossible. Elysian, enchanting, divine, glorious, aesthetic, intense, entrancing, captivating, inspiring, ecstatic, serene, angelic, absorbing, engrossing, engulging, monopolizing, engaging, attractive, magnetic—the vocabulary fails us. They are heavenly, with enough of the human throw in to enable them to double discount anything in the line of luxury that St. Peter turns the key on. They distilled joy that a man feels after putting an inseparable link into a fat faro bank; the wild elation that sometimes seizes the soul of the world worn editor when he has Sullivanized the man who wants an immediate retraction, are as nothing compared with them. They are yin-yam, long drawn out. The experience is like unto nothing but the consumption of the seed by the cherished flame of Prometheus fire. No human institution compares with it, and when it fails, don't deal it as a foul line game of life. To be born is only notable, because it makes the experience possible; to die is only dread, because it may terminate it. We have it bad, we know it, but there is some satisfaction in knowing that the party of the second part is it worse. Have you tried it? Stay with it. If you haven't, try it on at once. Delays are doubly dangerous, and if you indulge in any you may lose your grip, and never get there. Only a lottery? Nonsense. It's the squarest kind of a game, in which you "put up" the cards for your own benefit and win or lose on your own merits. Young man and old, get into the stream. If you can't take care of yourself after getting into it, get the right kind of a girl and she will see that your head doesn't get under water, and at the same time teach you that there are some things in this life that border very nearly, if not within the boundary of matrimony.

Mr. Alex. Duncan is a prominent saw-mill and lumber man doing business on Russian River, in California.

The said Duncan was requested by an A. H. Chinese league in his neighborhood, to discontinue the employment of a number of Chinese in his employ.

Aleck, who evidently belonged to the B. C's, and considered it un-American to be asked to help rid the coast of the Heathen Chinese, informed the league that it might go to a place where "the worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched." The reply of Aleck to the request of the league was forwarded to San Francisco, his consignees, interviewed by certain labor unions of that city, and when a few days later, he sent ten car loads of lumber from his mills to the Bay city, it was met at tide water by a telegram from the consignees that they did not want it, for they could not use it. Aleck and his Mongolians are not now engaged in preparing lumber for the San Francisco market.

Here is Your Help.

Among the arguments used by those who are willing that the Chinese should go but who want them to remain a little longer, is this: "How can we get our washing done?" Any argument on this question is solved by this answer: "Purchase at A. No. 1 Little Joker Washing Machine." This machine is light and simple, cheap and durable, so simple that a child or a weakly or sickly woman can run it without exertion. It saves time in fact a large family wash can be put out in two hours. It washes clean and does not wear out your clothes. Call and inspect one of the machines at Mrs. Grant who is the agent at the American Lodging House, Tombs next door to the court house, Tombstone, A. T. 4-12-11.

New Styles.
